

Talent Point in Focus: Pfiffikus

Ingvelde Scholz, Kaffeebergweg 3, 73527 Schwäbisch Gmünd, Email: ritterburg@t-online.de

An academy weekend lasts from Friday afternoon until Saturday morning. Experts from schools, universities and other institutions offer 12 to 15 workshops on a broad range of topics, such as Mathematical games, robotics, writing workshop, astronomy, wildlife observation, bridge construction, vehicle construction and much more. Talented children and adolescents from kindergarten, elementary and secondary schools have the opportunity to reach their potential and explore new topics beyond the content of the school curriculum. All course offerings focus on discovery and creative learning on a very high level. With more than 200 participants per weekend, our academies are well attended and much sought after. Parallel to the workshops for the children and adolescents Pfiffikus has offers for the parents and teachers. Because we not only want to have a look at the individual child, but also at the familiar environment and the network. - Free lecture series on topics about gifted education We offer a free lecture series on topics about gifted education and accompaniment on Friday afternoon. Competent speakers introduce in a lecture in a topic of the accompaniment of gifted children and adolescents. Afterwards there is the possibility to exchange and to discuss. - Parent talk circle and parents café On several Saturday mornings, Pfiffikus offers a parent talk circle of parents for parents. The participants can exchange experiences and ideas and receive support. Later on Saturday morning there is also a párents' café. Here, visitors can talk to each other with a cup of coffee or tea and cakes in a pleasant atmosphere on the subject of promoting talented students. Or the visitors can look at books and borrow them.
